In Dedication . . . To Evelyn Stuckey

"A woman of wondrous talents," is but one of the few phrases used to describe Miss Mary Evelyn Stuckey. She came to Las Vegas High School in 1949 and in only fourteen years has built a secure reputation as being one of the finest women in Las Vegas. Among her many achievements have been the organization of the three present Tri-Hi-Y clubs in the YMCA, director of two Elks Club Memorial Services, member of the Miss Rodeo America Pageant Committee, Rotary Honor Teacher, Woman of the year in 1954, Director of four Helldorado Beauty Pageants, and of course the greatest thing she has done for Las Vegas High School and Las Vegas, the organization of the Las Vegas High School Rythmettes. Yes, perhaps one of the easiest tasks in the world is to extoll on the merits of Evelyn Stuckey, but the Echo does not wish to stop there. The great amount of praise should be heaped on the virtues of Miss Stuckey, her patience, loyalty, drive, vigor, warmth, and her devotion to school and community. A look at the inside Miss Stuckey reveals her effort for perfection and her effervescent attitude to help others. To Las Vegas High School students the sound of a microphone announcing "And now, the Rhythmettes" will never be forgotten, and to the Rhythmettes themselves Evelyn Stuckey will always be remembered as their advisor and perhaps a second mother. It is after many other awards, honors, and thanks that the Wildcat Echo for 1963 wishes to proudly dedicate "A Portrait In Learning" to Miss Stuckey for her fourteen years of service to Las Vegas High School.

Miss Stuckey participates with enthusiasm, learns with patience, and performs with skill.

The warm and vibrant Miss Stuckey evolves kindness to all.

After graduating with distinction, Evelyn Stuckey challenged the world and made her way among the leaders.

To all who know her this is the Stuckey trademark, and the ability to relax is the ability to be happy.

Dear Leon,

We can remember Jeff, Ref, and the cousins with fond memories. Teardrops and Treetops will still be around.

I'll always thank you for reminding me about things so that I got into "R"'s. I really appreciated it.

Dedicated and hardworking, our officers for 1962-63 combined their many talents, ideas, and interests to help create the portrait of our student body. Their valuable leadership channelled the year into one of fun-filled activities, and their accomplishments encouraged invaluable school spirit. All of this, coupled with individual scholastic ability, entitle these students to the offices they hold—our student body leaders. Jon Larsen, President, ably asisted by James Richards, Vice President; Candy Galster, Secretary; Anne Griffiths, Treasurer, and Trent Whittle, S.E.C. Commissioner, combined their efforts to make this an outstanding year for L.V.H.S. The student body should realize that the job of the officers is not an easy one and demands a great deal of time and effort.

Money raising was made fun through the I.Q. Contest.

Working to improve LVHS and its student body, the Student Senate meets twice a month to discuss current problems and school situations. This is a group of students whose interests lie in the school and do its best to see that Vegas High is governed properly. During each meeting of the Senate, representatives are given the opportunity to express their opinions as to the matter in question. They are allowed to present the pros and cons of any proposition or amendment brought before the Senate. After each meeting, a full report prepared by the secretary, is read to the homerooms by the representatives. In this manner, the student body is kept well-informed as to the actions and decisions of the Senate. This active group insures a democratic government by giving each student a voice through a homeroom representative. Las Vegas High School is in good hands with the excellent insurance — our Student Senate.

Homecoming activities were brightened by the Student Senate Float.

Senior Court is composed of seven students who have the task of trying all cases brought before them. This is one of the duties that must be performed in order to demonstrate to students that L.V.H.S. is sincere in the familiar titles and phrases "Senior Steps," "Senior Squares," and "Seniors leave first." It seems that Juniors and Sophomores are sometimes forgetful; however, they are quickly reminded by the judges in the Senior Court. Judges are able to exercise the privilege of acting as interpreters of the Constitution, along with the power of judicial review. The Senior Court is another spoke in the wheel of our student government, and as any small piece of machinery, is vitally important to its proper functioning.

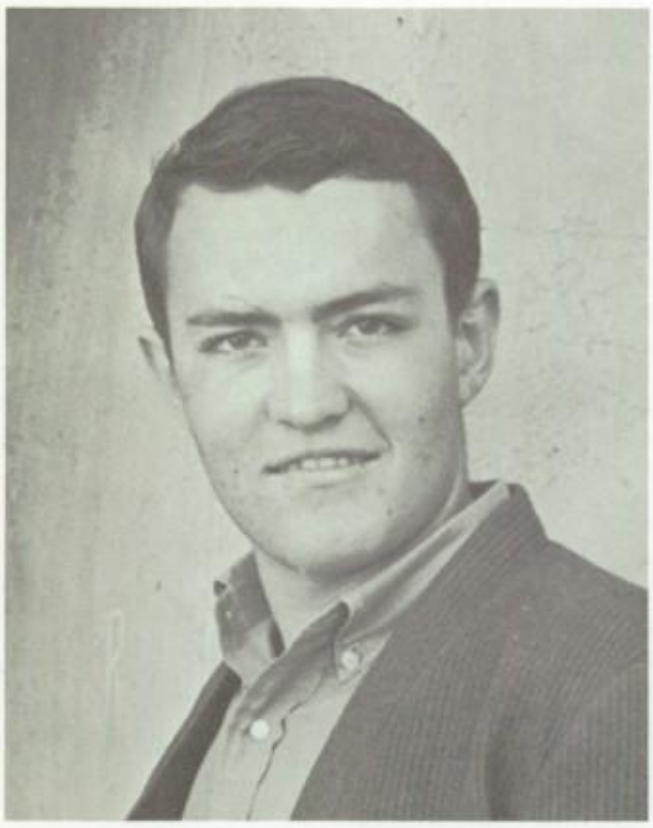
S. E. C. Enforces School Rules



Trent Whittle
Commissioner

As a city needs law enforcement officers, so a school requires its enforcement commissioners. Our enforcement officers, the S.E.C., is one form of democratic government at Las Vegas High School in which students govern students. The S.EC. has the authority to issue tickets to junior and sophomore violators of senior privileges which require the offenders to appear before the Senior Court. Other duties of the Student Enforcement Commissioners include enforcing the rulings of the Senior Court and the desires of the Student Senate. Indirectly, this conscientious group strives to teach students to respect the rights and privileges of others.

The Board of Education and Administration is responsible for the harmonious operations of the school system and L.V.H.S. The job of this group is an extremely difficult one, for they must deal with the need for more teachers, better textbooks, and more and better classroom facilities. This job requires top individuals who are interested in the schools and the education of the students in Las Vegas. Our present school board administration certainly meets and exceeds these requirements, as they are a group of publicly-minded people. The Board meets regularly to discuss the problems of the educational system and to correct any flaws with which they can deal. Doubtless, our school system is constantly improving through the dedication of these trustworthy adults.

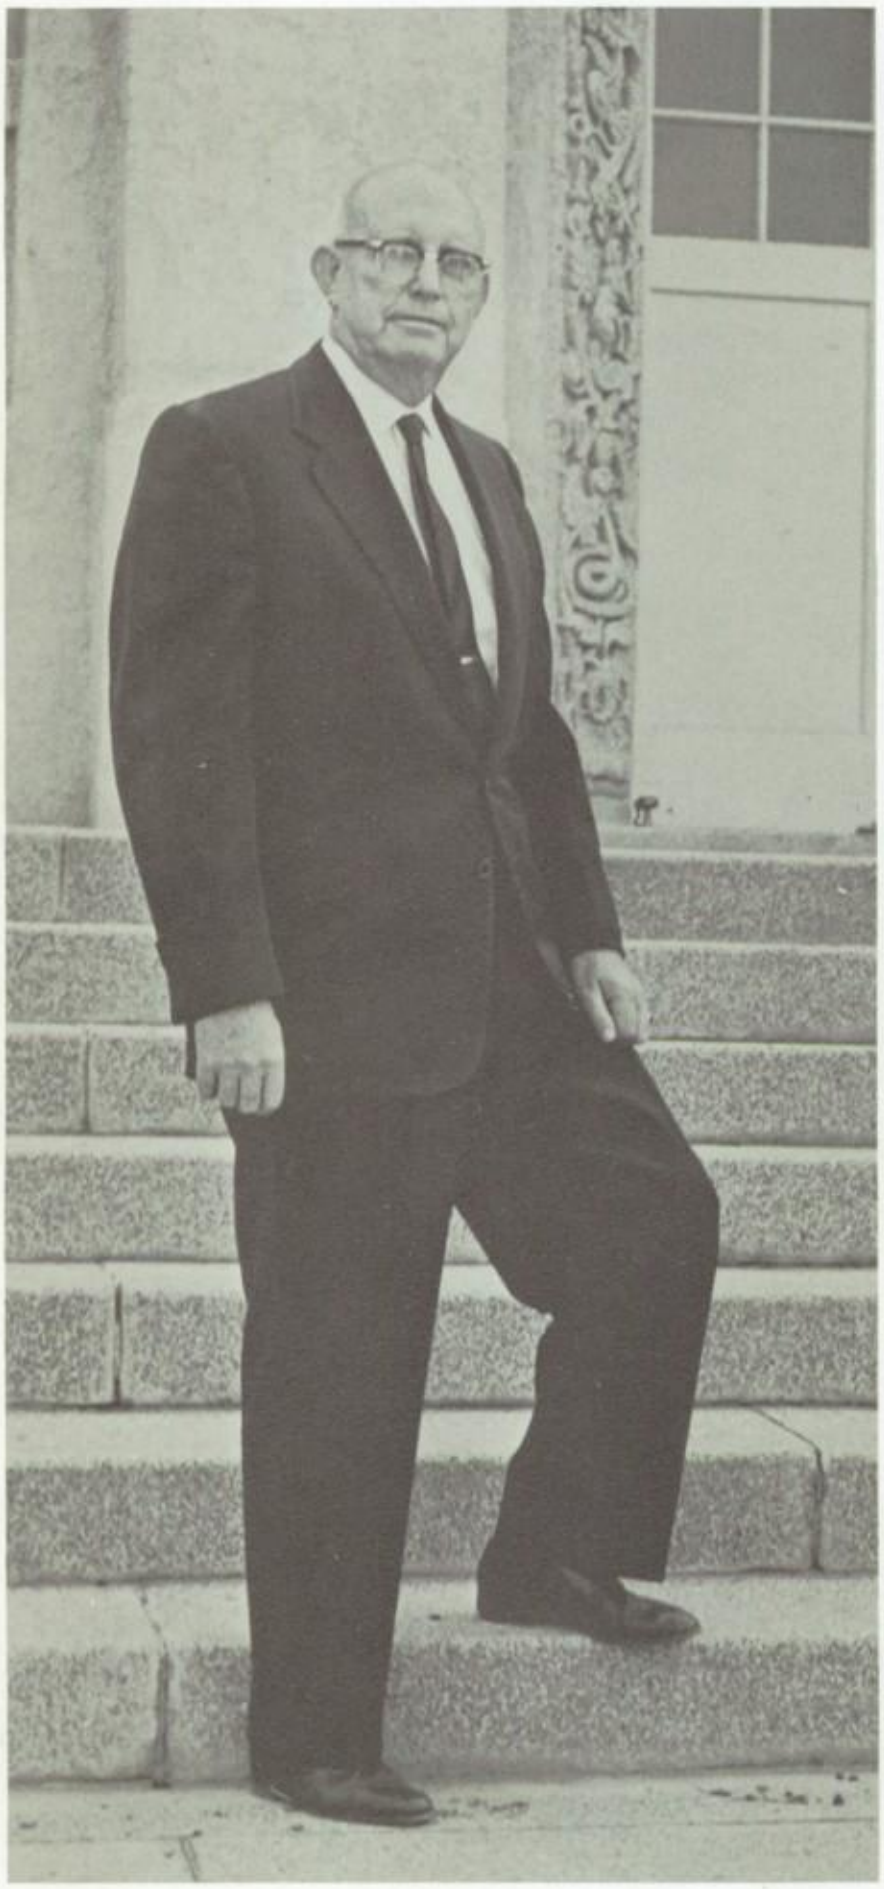
Efficient Principals Guide Students



Mr. Walter V. Long
Principal

Supervising student activities and students, the principal of Las Vegas High School, Mr. Walter V. Long, channels, directs, or evaluates the lives of over 1,750 students. The responsibility of this task is a great one; but is handled with the understanding, the experience, and the devotion so necessary for the position of principal. Mr. Long's experience in teaching and administrative work has developed a harmonious relationship between student and principal which encourages determination and self-reliance. This relationship has instilled in the student body the desire to elevate the standing of Las Vegas High School, its faculty, and students. Mr. Long's time is devoted to solving special disciplinary problems, financial problems, and the smooth operation of the school. However, he finds time in his busy schedule to enjoy the many facets of photography or to become absorbed in a favorite biography. Mr. Long is often seen rushing in and out of buildings and rooms, supervising at lunch, delivering well-deserved paychecks to the faculty, and quietly and efficiently executing his duties and responsibilities of principal. Las Vegas High School is the product of the determination and efforts of Mr. Long.

The tremendous responsibility placed on the shoulders of Mr. Long is somewhat eased by the excellent assistance given him by Mr. Harvey Stanford, Vice-Principal. Mr. Stanford, who must deal with those students who insist on making school life difficult for all those concerned, is in charge of attendance. Students should greatly appreciate what Mr. Stanford has done for Las Vegas High School.

Mr. Harvey Stanford
Vice Principal

Miss Ulis Newton
Vice Principal

Director of the counselors and curriculum advisor, Miss Ulis Newton supervises two major areas of school life which demand much time, patience, and devotion. Miss Newton has been a part of Las Vegas High School for many years; and the great task she assumes has made her an asset to our principal, faculty, and counselors. The student body would greatly feel the loss of this capable vice-principal who has devoted such a great portion of her life to Las Vegas High School.

Counselors Aid Students' Decisions

Miss Sydney Dawson
Upperclass Girls' Counselor

Bewildered and confused, faced with a variety of problems, thousands of students have come to the counselors for aid and assistance. Invariably, they have left the office with a smile and far fewer problems! Our quartet of wise and able counselors have played an important role in the high school and college careers of a great many L.V.H.S. students. Mrs. Stanford and Mr. Roe have headed Sophomores in the right direction as they oriented the new Junior High School students. Miss Dawson and Mr. George have given Juniors and Seniors the self-confidence and careful consideration they need for their future. There are many students throughout the United States who are grateful to our counselors.

Office Staff Carries Out Duties Well

Quietly and unobtrusively, a group of loyal people perform the everyday tasks that must be done to keep the school running smoothly. Each one of the capable office staff members devotes not only school time, but hours before and after, working for the student body. The school record of each student, his attendance, and history, is only one of the jobs that demands constant attention from the staff. Even though these people have more than enough to do, they become a part of the student body, supporting all activities or projects the students undertake. The office staff is certainly an asset to our school, its students, and faculty.

Student Office Workers Assist The Faculty

Competent student helper gives announcements of the day.

Along with their regular classes, a select group of students is trained in office procedures. The many jobs that must be done by the office staff often require assistance; this aid is furnished by the considerate students who are willing to devote time and effort to ease the tensions of office work. Student workers perform many tasks to give our counselors and staff the time they need to dedicate to the student body. The students run errands, type lists, run off stencils, deliver messages, and assist many confused students. All of these jobs are extremely time-consuming; therefore, student office workers are greatly appreciated but are also compensated by the experience they receive.

Library Workers Assist The Learned

Barbara Smith, Judy Pickerell, Arlene Hiltbrand, Dianne Abercrombie, Julia Jaffe

Books open the world before us; they transport us from primevil forests to a distant star; they instruct, inform, and fascinate the reader. Different types of books can be found in the school library anxiously awaiting an interested reader. The LVHS library is steadily growing and constantly improving in the quantity and quality of books. During the past year alone, new shelves have been added to accommodate the many reference books the library has received. To assist the student in finding and using books to their best advantage, a group of students has been trained by capable librarians in library functions. The library workers gain a great deal of information and experience along with a well-deserved feeling of accomplishment for assuming such responsibilities at Las Vegas High School.

Luncheteria Supplies Big Appetites

LaReta Hutchinson
Manager

Every student looks forward to lunch; some enjoy the moment of relaxation taken from a busy day, while others anticipate a good lunch. Much hard work and a great deal of valuable time is devoted to the luncheteria by the staff. Divided lunch periods, due to the large enrollment at LVHS, have enabled the staff and service to become more efficient. While this change caused some confusion and problems, especially for those who were used to enjoying a liesurely lunch, everyone soon settled down to the routine of school life. Luncheteria workers give time before and after school and also sacrifice one of their classes to serve the student body. We should be grateful to those students who devote their time and effort.

Custodians Insure A Clean Campus

A turn of a wheel will heat the school.

A sparkling campus and spotless classrooms greet Vegas High students as they arrive at school. Throughout the entire day students are aided by the work of our able custodians. Through their unceasing effort these men maintain a neat and attractive campus for the student body. Emergencies which often arise during the day are met with ease and are taken care of immediately. The inumerable tasks, along with the maintenance of the many parts that compose a school, combine to create a better place in which to study and learn.

Leon,

It really has been a great honor knowing you these past years. Leon, you have such a cute personality. I have known you since about 8th grade and have never lost your friendship. Maybe its because yours can't be lost.

I hope to see you supporting me (next year) (that is Pep Club) believe me it'll need it. Could you follow that sentence. No really we had lots of fun together. Stay as you are and you'll go very, very far in life long hard way or road. Good luck in everything you do. See you next year when we are seniors.

Creating The Leaders, The Electors

The molders—the developers of our minds in every field—these are the people who guide our footsteps, the faculty of Las Vegas High School. Teachers who develop a student's mind in the area of English give him a better understanding of the world, it's ideals and culture. Through History and Government, he is given a better understanding of the problems of the world and is encouraged to formulate opinions of his own. Through Math an instructor guides a student into developing greater reasoning power. The teacher feels rewarded as he watches graduation—the same feeling of accomplishment that a painter experiences when he takes the final stroke and lays down his brush. His job is finished—now the portrait must prove itself worthy of the years of work devoted to it through its acceptance and contribution to the world.

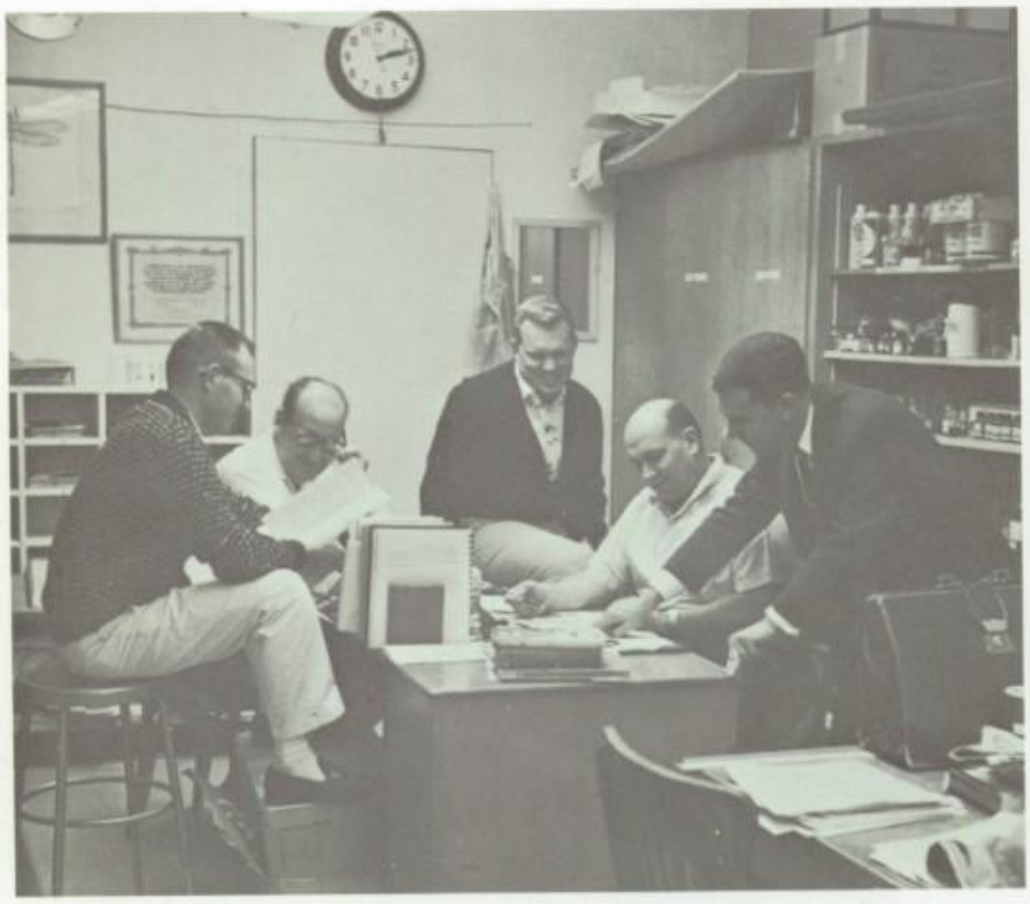
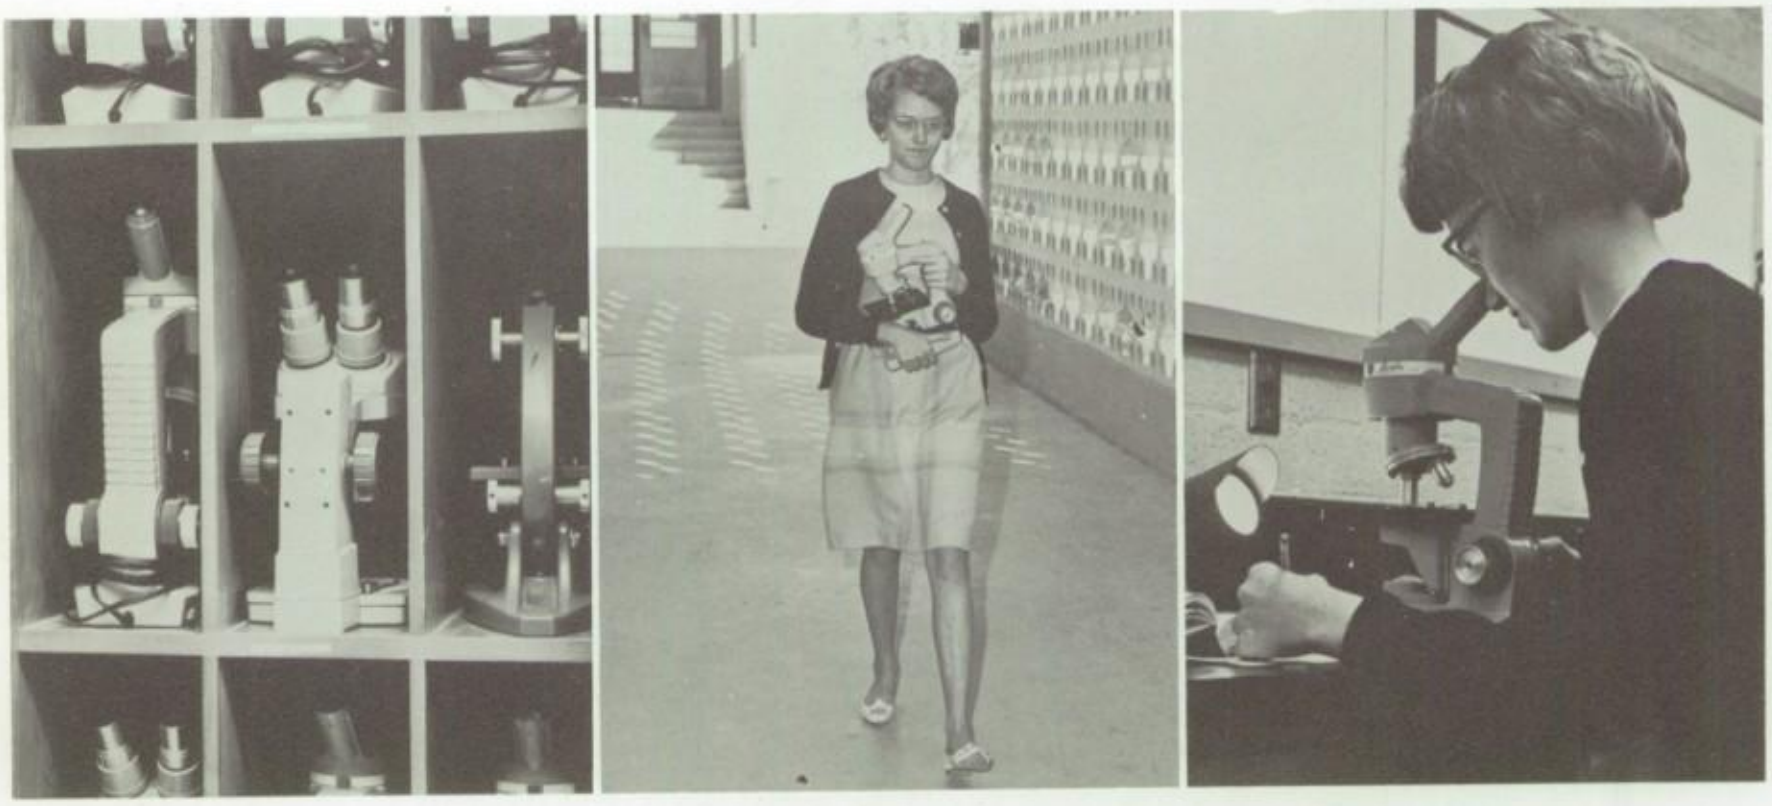
Science Prods Ingenuity In Students



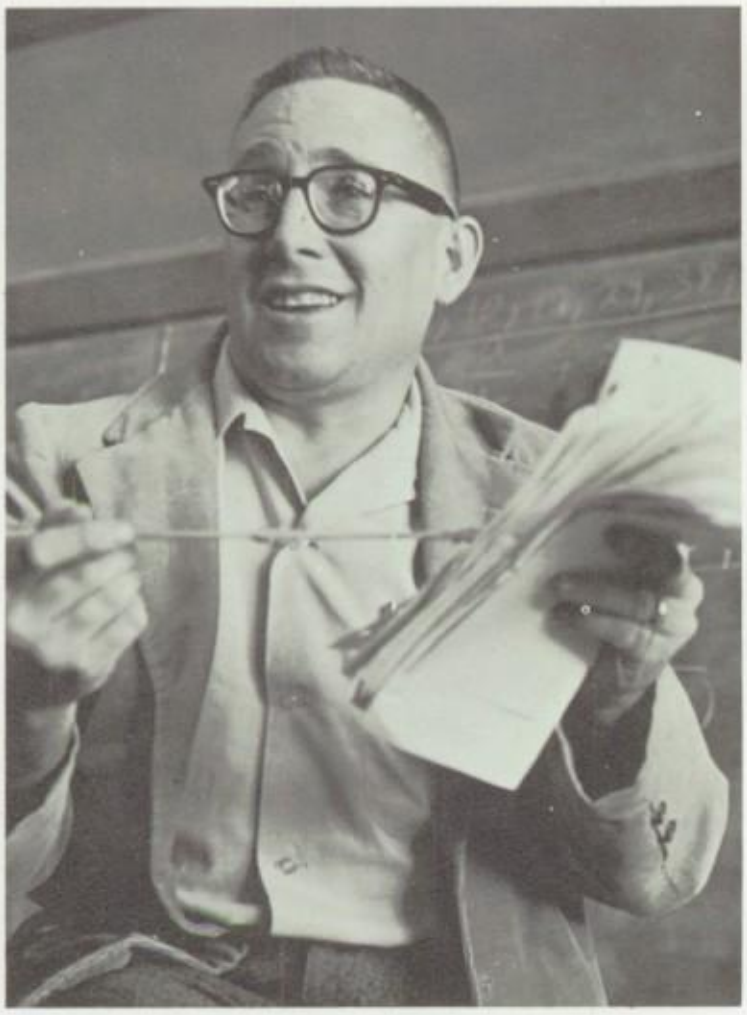
Biology teachers use team teaching to "team up" on students.

At the time of graduation, students of Las Vegas High School have had the opportunity to observe and perform dissections, produce varied chemicals in the laboratory, connect a circuit, or perhaps build a ham radio set. These are a few products of the science courses offered at Las Vegas High. Along with receiving needed education and background, a student is allowed to participate in the experiments and projects which often build interest and the incentive to learn. The science courses in high school serve as a foundation from which students are given the opportunity to build. A course often shows a student the doors to a new field in which his interests lie. The introduction to basic scientific ideas develops the desire for learning that is necessary in all phases of education. The science courses are designed to make the student explore and develop an awareness of the world in which he lives.



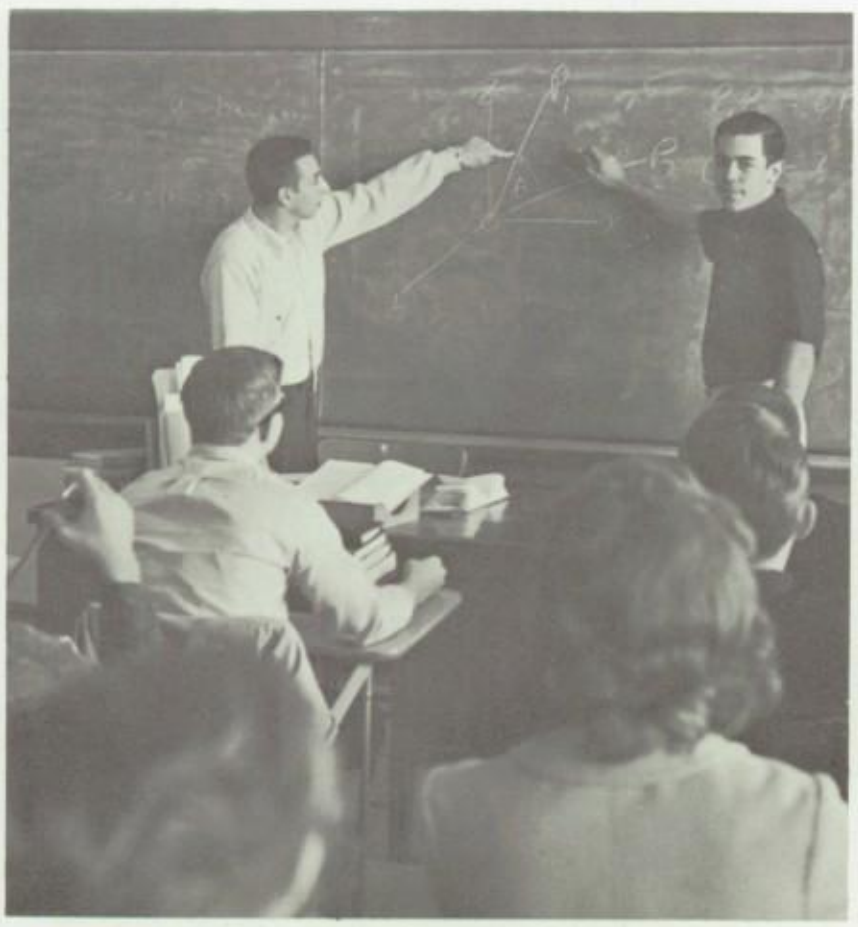
Biology student explores complexities of microscopic life.

Mathematics, Precise But Infinite

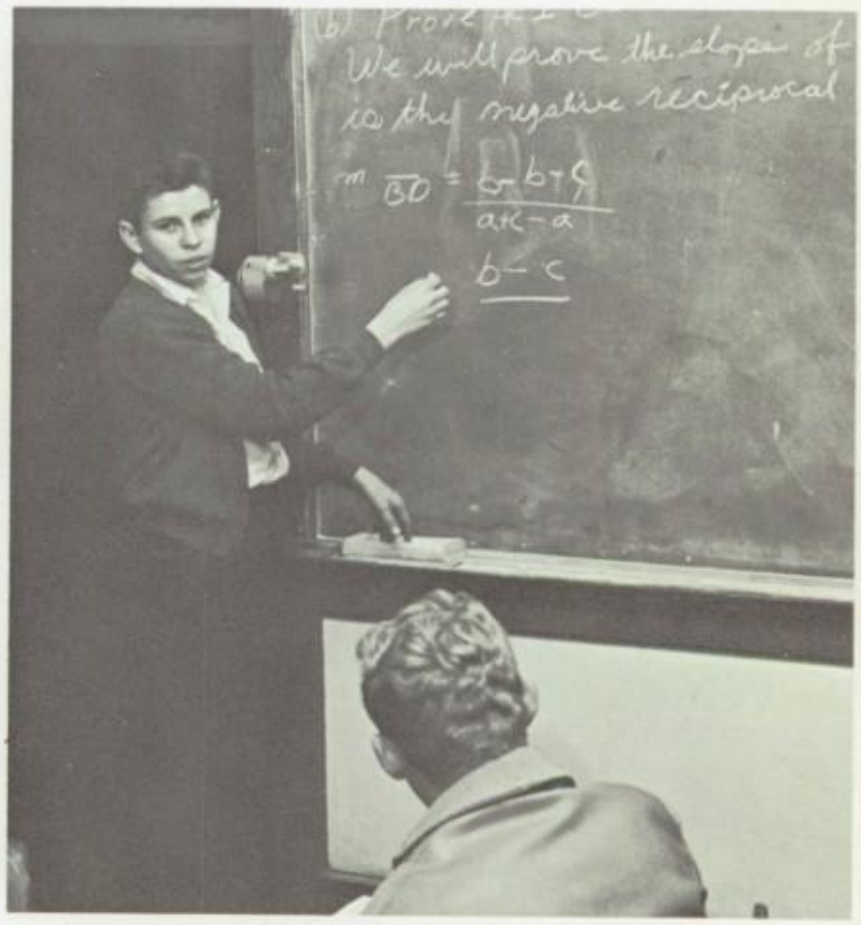


Mr. Horn explains principles of trigonometry.

A different world is opened to students at Las Vegas High School through the exact science of mathematics. Students studying algebra, geometry, or trigonometry are introduced to the language and shorthand of mathematics, and develop an entirely new concept in problem-solving and logical reasoning. Through these courses of study, students learn to think and live beyond their once limited scope. They are often encouraged when they find themselves applying their knowledge in the home, or reflecting on a current space problem faced by our nation. Mathematics is found in every type of vocation and with all its many angles, curves, and numbers, it is a prerequisite for future success.

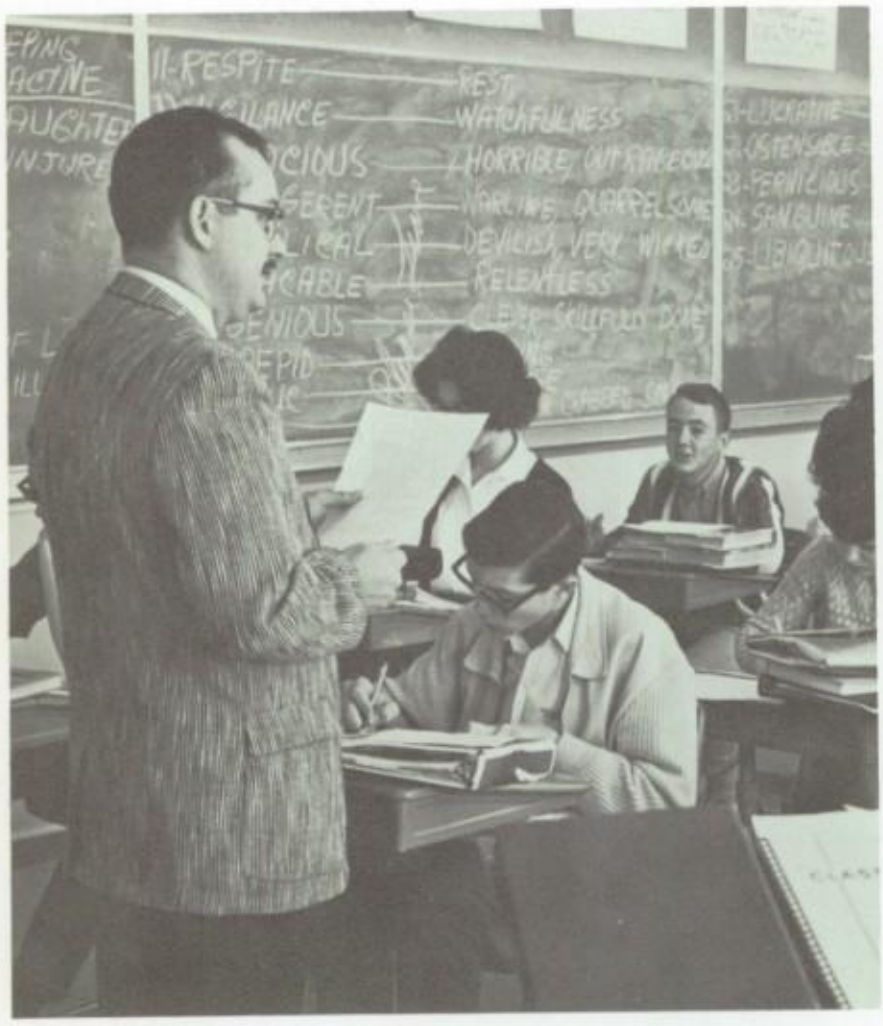


Solid Geometry student explains a problem.



Geometry student makes a futile attempt at solving problem.

English - The Foundation For Learning

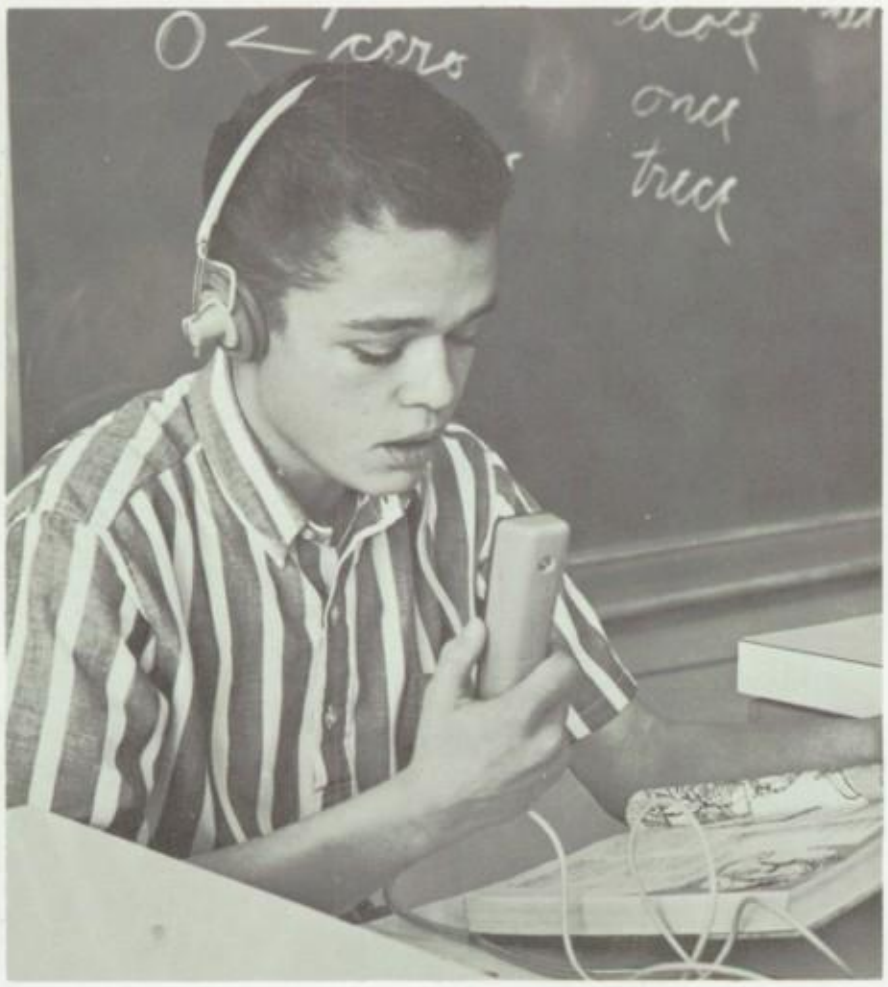


Mr. Carver delivers a lecture to his sophomore English Class.

During the 20th century, English has become the most important study in a student's high school career. Without the ability to speak and write the English language properly, everyday living would not be possible. Education would come to a standstill and communication would be inconceivable. At Las Vegas High School, students are made aware of the importance of learning to speak, read, and write our language correctly. They are instructed in the foundation and building blocks of the English language along with its product – literature. Students at Vegas High are given the opportunity to study wide varieties of literature including that of England and the United States. Through an ever-changing language, people of the English speaking countries are made much more aware of an ever-changing world. Perhaps the most difficult subject to master and to interpret, but English is the most rewarding of any study in the courses at Las Vegas High.

Miss Theodosen's Junior Class discuss their latest literature assignment.

World Perspective Gained Through Foreign Languages



The language lab provides inspiring practice for students.

Throughout the day, a student of Las Vegas High School can hear conversations in the halls; these conversations are unique, however, in that they are spoken in German, French, Latin, or Spanish. Due to the desire to speak another tongue proficiently, French is offered for four years and Spanish may be studied for three years. Two years ago German was introduced to the students of LVHS. It was widely accepted by those interested in this language. Learning to speak, write, and comprehend a foreign language requires hours of repetitious practice and a great deal of effort on the part of the student. However, the time spent learning to pronounce difficult words is compensated by a strong sense of accomplishment. Languages are of great importance not only for personal knowledge but also for communication with foreign nations and an understanding of international affairs.

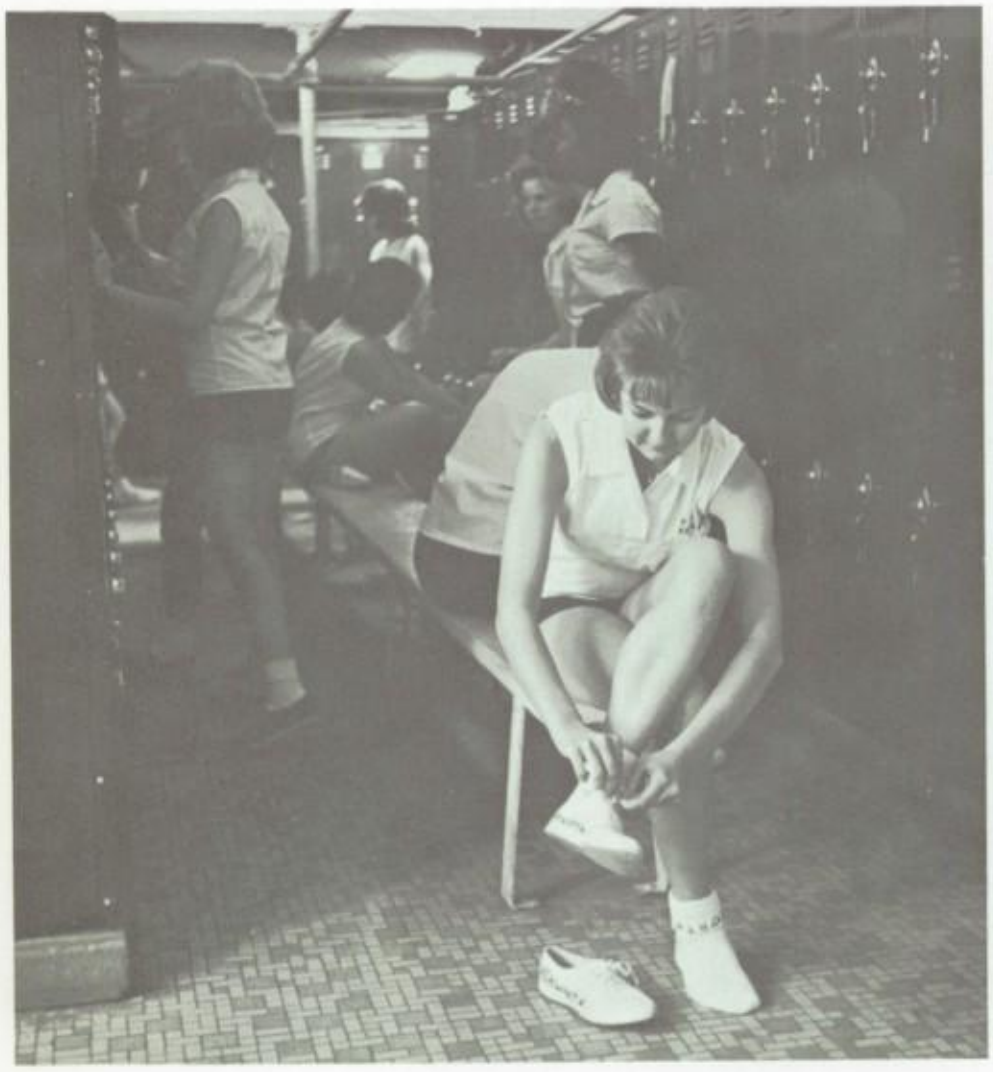
Adeptness Gained At A Frantic Pace



A day . . .

Left, right! Up, down! Flex, extend! These are familiar commands heard ringing through the gym during the day. Physical education is one of the most important classes required in the Junior and Sophomore year at LVHS. A physically strong and healthy body aids in classroom work, along with giving students the opportunity to develop skills in various activities. Girls' physical education classes are given a diversion in modern dance at which time they are able to exhibit their creativity in this particular field. Students find physical education classes very enjoyable, as they offer a variation in the tedious scholastic schedule of the day through sports, exercises, and other recreational activities. P.E. also affords a student the time to relax while keeping muscles toned and the body physically fit!

Fine Arts Display Creative Students

The Madrigals at an afternoon practice.

An outstanding performance executed by the members of the LVHS Band reflects long hours of work and practice. A beautiful program done by the chorus eminates thoughts, ideas, and the desire to please. Performances such as these are expressions of one of the fine arts – music. Words spoken over and over, actions done in many different ways, expressions changed until they are perfect – each of these blend to create a play, or a reading, and each of these is an expression of another fine art – drama. A paint brush, canvass, a world of colorful ideas, pastels, experiences – each of these is an expression of still another fine art – artistry. Every expression and every phase of the arts is combined in the paints, the actions, and the desire to create. Art is a form of self-expression and creativity and each is necessary for the existence of the network of fine arts.

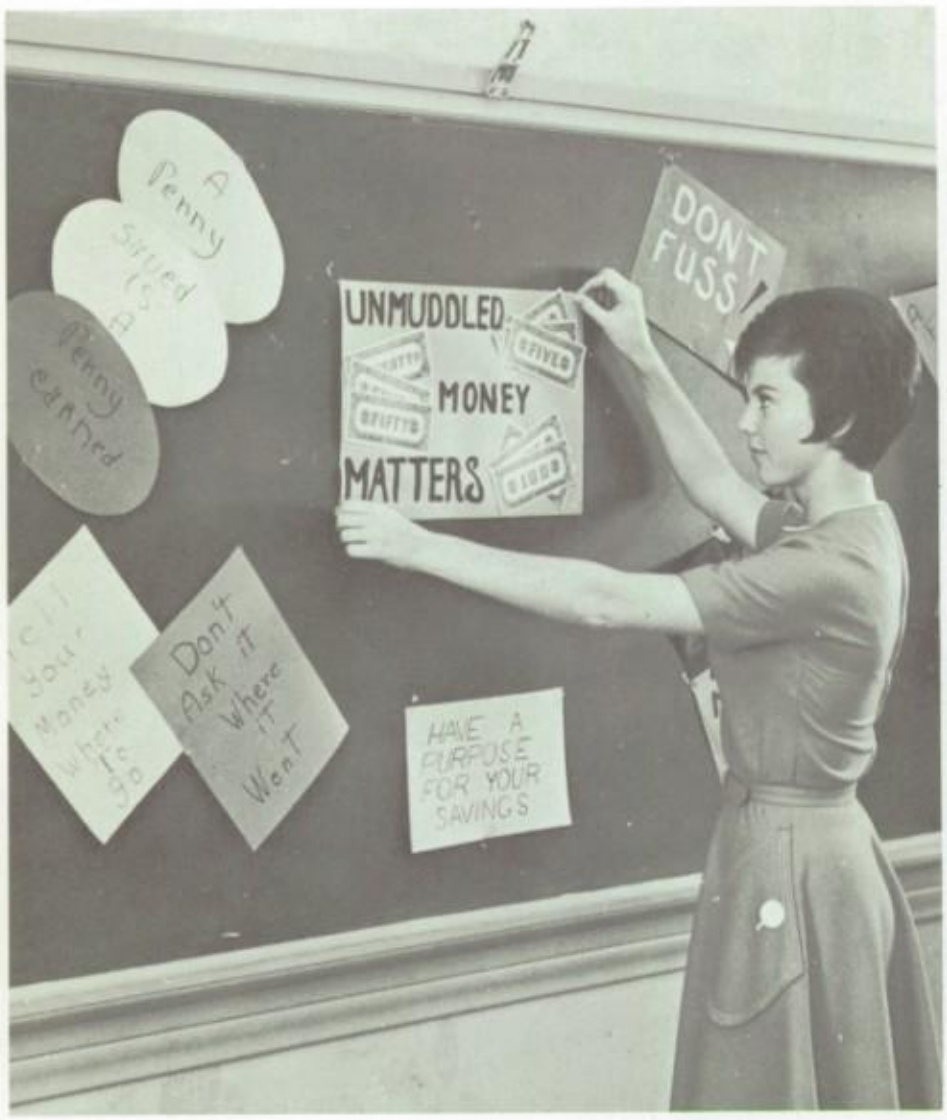
Domestic Training Yields Mature Students



A Penny Saved is a Penny earned
UNMUDDLED MONEY MATTERS
DON'T FUSS!
Don't Ask If Where IT Went
HAVE A PURPOSE FOR YOUR SAVINGS

Students in Family Life learn money management.

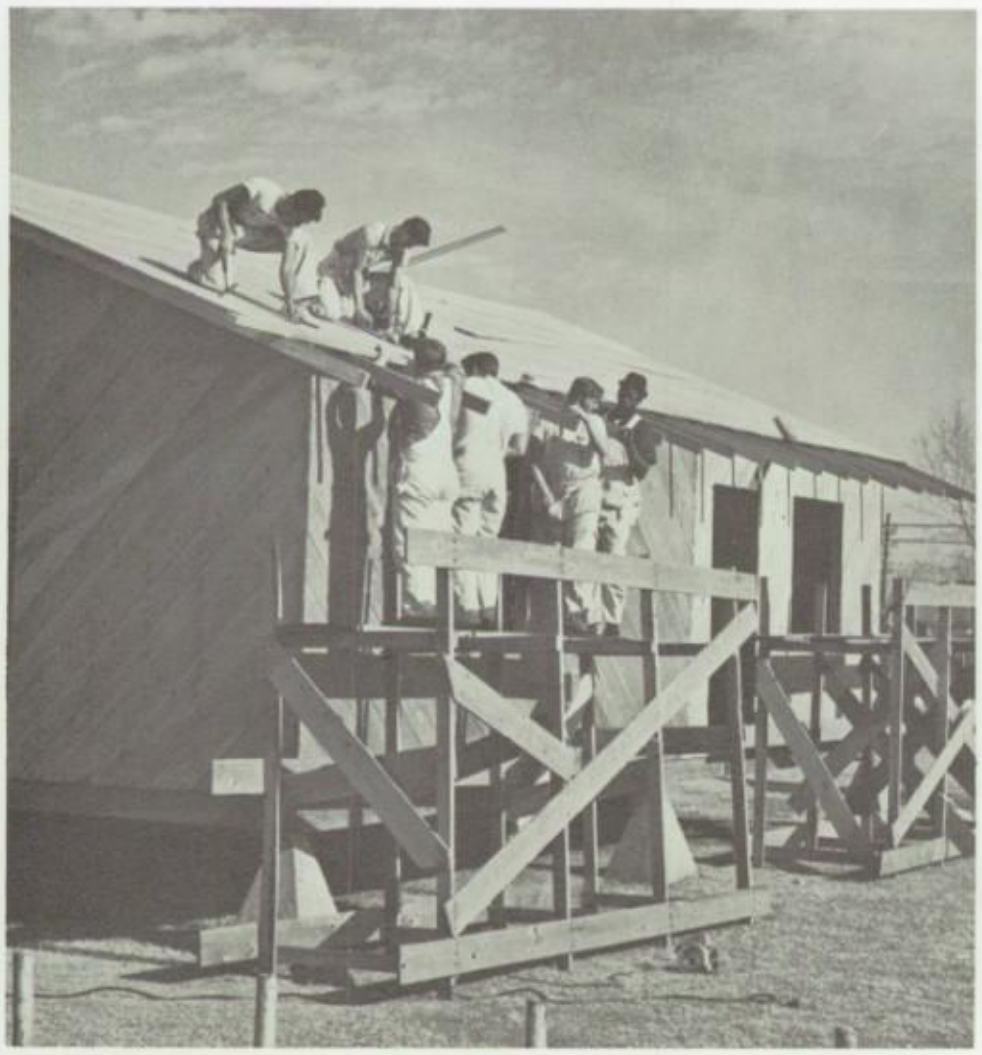
The science of getting along in one's own society is a basic knowledge that all students should receive some training in while in high school. The variety of courses pertaining to this subject include home economics, family life, driver's education, psychology, economics, and sociology. These classes are mainly interested in the raising of good and capable citizens that are able to balance with the learning of the mind and create conscientious Americans. Home economics deals with the needs of the home as sewing, cooking, and child care. Family life concentrates on the marital happiness of the home and goes hand in hand with psychology which deals with peace of mind and the ability to analyze and solve one's own problems. Driver's education prepares the youth to cope with the hazards and responsibilities of driving and owning a car. Economics and sociology instruct students in the affairs of management and social history in our country. LVHS provides more than adequate domestic training for future adults.

Home Economic students view demonstration of baking skill.

Vocational Work, Backbone Of America

Auto shop students learn to repair a trailer hitch.

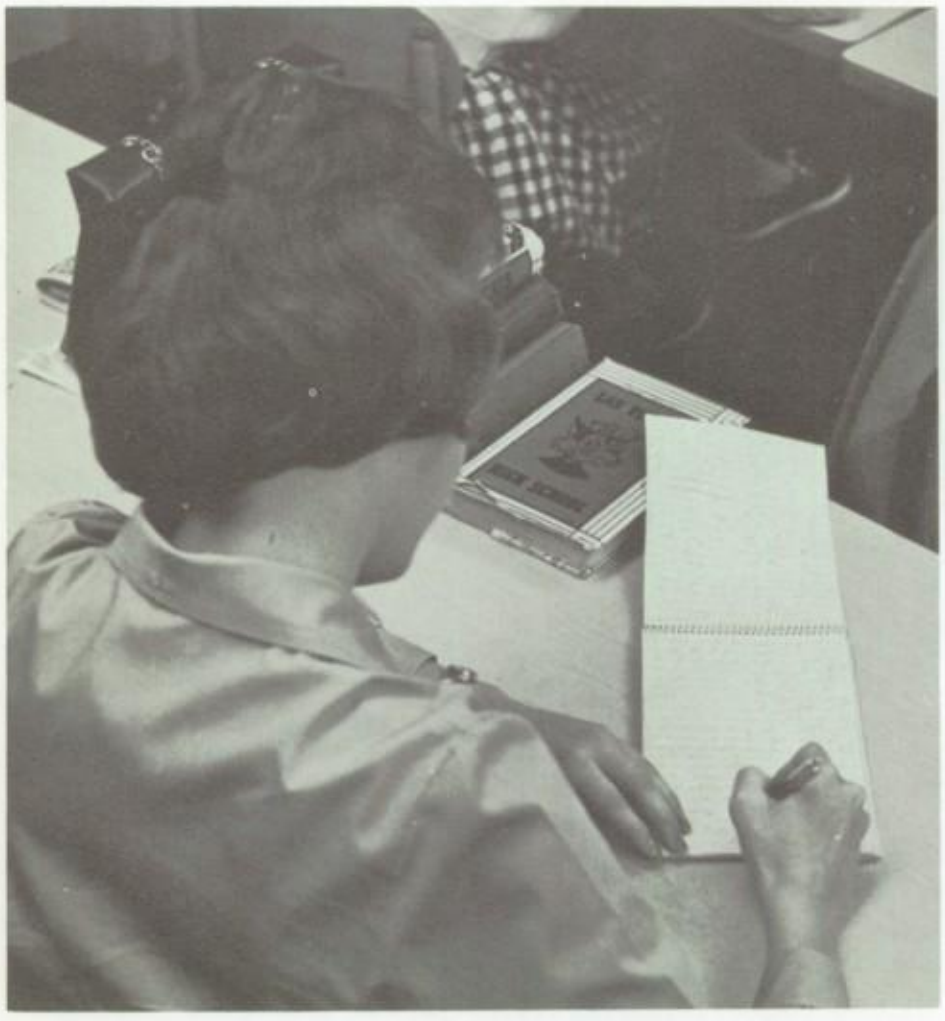
To keep interest high and to vary a student's program schedule, a wide variety of special interest classes are offered at Las Vegas High School. Students are given the opportunity to create and build while learning the technique and skill of using the machinery with which they work. In a vocational class a student is creating, building, and working for himself; therefore, he is apt to work more carefully, correcting any errors, and actually learning a great deal more. Driver's Education instructs students in the art of driving a car. They are taught the fundamentals and given actual experience through the driver trainer which allows them to encounter actual highway experiences. In both fields, students are taught to be more alert and cautious while creating, constructing, and learning.



Students work to complete home-building project.

Precision is a must in metal working.

Accuracy, The Key In Commercial Courses



A shorthand student perfects her style.

Expressions which reveal concentration, the busy sounds of a typewriter, balanced books, and the pages of shorthand characters are all traces of students who are participants in the commercial courses offered at Las Vegas High School. Each student realizes that proficiency is attained strough hours of work and practice, and finds he must devote a great deal of time to his commercial class. These classes prepare students for college and business vocations, equipping them with the knowledge, ability, and skills, which will produce better students and better businessmen and women. Commercial courses are designed to train a student in patience, accuracy, diligence, and the desire to improve himself and his work. They train a student to keep a steady pace in learning, develop keen interest, and encourage a student to achieve his goals and ideals.

The calm before the "bell".

Our Heritage, Our Government

This is democracy?

Students of the world today are fortunate to be living in an era which will someday be recorded in the pages of history. Each day brings new problems of which the government and history classes make students very much aware. The government and history classes of Las Vegas High School give students the opportunity to discuss their ideas and viewpoints on politics, economics, and religion. Students are exposed to the beliefs of fellow pupils as well as the beliefs of their instructors. The classes give students the background necessary in continuing the democratic government that our nation is so fortunate in having. It also gives students the knowledge necessary to combat any political disease which may invade our country and threaten its freedom.

The Senior Class began the year with the knowledge that this was the last four year class at LVHS, and that their high school career was coming to a close. A group of fine people, the Senior Class Officers, joined together to make the 1962-63 school year far superior to any yet enjoyed by the Seniors. The senior class play, "Pygmalion," was very successful as were the other traditional activities. The Seniors were awarded the trophy for the class with the most school spirit and one for their outstanding Homecoming float. This has been an exciting year for the class of '63 as they prepare to enter into the world as adults. Certainly they graduate with mixed feelings—happiness and regret, and most of all, a feeling of accomplishment.

Echo Salutes Last Freshman Class

The Freshman Class Float, "Moby Dick," was the last one and received Honorable Mention for the class.

It is the great privilege of the Echo to reserve two special pages for not only an outstanding group of Seniors, but also the last graduating Freshman class at Las Vegas High School. With the growth of new and modern junior high schools an old institution has been lost, that of the four year high school. Perhaps the last class was not the greatest, but it certainly contributed some outstanding additions to LVHS. The school can be proud of three Rhythmettes who will be the last of the three year Rhythmettes, along with the editor of the Echo, Senior class editor, news editor for the Breeze, junior class president, and many others who did their best at Las Vegas High School. Nora Johnson and Dave Phoenix, president and vice-president respectively, handled the class well during their Freshmen year. The annual "Freshmen Frolic" was held at Twin Lakes and was met with enthusiasm, friendly dunkings, and big appetites. "Moby Dick," the float for Homecoming, took honorable mention, which denotes the hard work put in by the class. In its sophomore year this class joined with students from other schools, but the vigor of the core of freshmen did not diminish, it only increased and built the spirit which carried the class of "1963" to the stature of mighty Seniors and finally to graduation. Congratulations to a deserving class!

Bob Earl
President

Not yet king size and no longer pint size, the Junior Class is unique in its position. The class of '64 worked hard throughout the year earning credits, creating an award-winning float, "building" the annual Totem Pole, and, in general, proving themselves worthy of the distinction they received as Juniors. Under the leadership of competent officers, Bob Earl, David Mendenhall, Kathy Brookline, and Linda Knoller, the talents and capabilities of this class have been developed. The Junior Class has produced some fine leaders in athletics, organizations, talent, and scholastic achievements. The accomplishments of this class prove that they are well prepared and very capable to accept the responsibilities of being "king size."

The Annual Junior Prom, highlight of the Junior year, involved careful planning and preparation as shown by these officers.

Steve Nelson
President

Entering a new exciting world, the Sophomore class came to Las Vegas High School to begin a fascinating phase of life. Through orientation their heads were filled with do's and don't of campus life, the Senior privileges, schedule's and a host of other responsibilities required of LVHS students. Swept up in the whirlwind of school life, many students accepted more responsibilities. Several Sophomore girls became cheerleaders while other hard-working and outstanding students built a beautiful Sophomore float. The expertly planned Sophomore Hop was filled with enchantment and captivated all who attended. The class of 1965 should be pleased in the knowledge that the class is one in which Vegas High can be proud and one on which the school can always depend.

Who's Who

From every graduating class there are those who are affectionately regarded as intelligent, athletic, hard-working, talented, successful, friendly, or humorous. Each of the students in these categories deserves the distinction they receive by being selected to appear in Who's Who. The members of the Senior Class are given the opportunity to nominate those fellow classmates who they feel have earned the various titles in an initial ballot, while the most widely preferred candidates are selected through a second ballot. The Seniors of Who's Who fame have already made a place for themselves in school life by earning the respect and admiration of those around them, and they will make a place for themselves in the adult world they must face at the close of their Senior year. The names of those who are chosen to appear in this section of the Wildcat Echo are secretly carried by the yearbook until its distribution in the spring to the students of Las Vegas High School.

Outstanding Football Players Honored

Lee White
Most Inspirational Teammate
Most Improved Player

Outstanding games, hard work, and rewarding efforts merit recognition at Las Vegas High School. For members of the football team this recognition may come on the field, on campus, or at the annual Football Banquet where awards are presented to deserving players. Recipients of the awards, who are chosen by the team itself, undoubtedly have earned the respect and admiration of coaches and members alike.

Students Express Opinions At Youth Forum

A current question, a stated opinion, an educational discussion — this is the pattern followed by the panelists attending the Clark County Sun Youth Forum. Sponsored by the Las Vegas Sun newspaper, this forum allows interested students to speak on national and international affairs, local problems, and questions the people of our city, state, and country must answer. Students are given the chance to discuss and express opinions and ideas, thus broadening their knowledge and views of current affairs.

Panel Representatives Bob Everhart, Dave Mendenhall.

These initiative students show their interest in their country by participating in the Forum.

To those students of Las Vegas High School who, through exceptional capabilities merit recognition, go Vegas High's special awards. The recipients of the special awards are superior students and leaders and reflect the high quality of the educational materials and teachers of LVHS. Each of the award winners represents science, mathematics, art, education, or domesticity, and each is worthy of the awards he receives. Opportunities await the students who have distinguished themselves as being the outstanding students of LVHS.

Invaluable Knowledge Gained At Boys' State

Lively discussions were one of the many varied activities in which these delegates engaged.

Their lives made fuller and more complete, four Vegas High Senior boys returned from Boys' State filled with a comprehensive understanding of our state system of government. At the University of Nevada, these outstanding students are given a week in which to absorb the operations, procedures and duties involved in governing the state. The information available is limitless, and the knowledge gained is invaluable for preparing the young students of today for the political world they must live in as adults.

Junior Girls Gain Understanding Of Government

Besides serving as officers of Girls' State these girls were enthusiastic participants in the talent show.

The complex machinery of state government plays an important role in a citizen's life; however, he often knows very little about this governmental system. The opportunity to be a part of and participate in this facet of democracy was offered to four girls of Vegas High. These four students were introduced to a week of political responsibilities, tasks, and activities, and they returned with a new concept of government, exciting memories, and closer ties among themselves.

To a darling redhead.
You know that's the first thing
I noticed about you.
I hope you try to do something about your voice. You could really be a marvelous singer.
I've had loads of fun in my last year, and I really cherish very little thoughts & memory. I hope you do the same, have a fabulous time in your senior year. (you're only young once)
Good Bye & Good Luck.

Mrs. Butler, Mr. Thiriot
Advisors

The Senior Honor Club and Induction Ceremony was a highlight for old and new members alike.

The torch of knowledge burns brightly in new and old members of Senior Honor Society. Older members are well acquainted with the warm glow of satisfaction as they strive for the betterment of our school and its student body. New members are filled with the enthusiastic desire to work toward the promotion of education and exceptional scholastic achievement. Together they compose one of the most highly respected and beneficial organizations working in and for Las Vegas High School and its student body, the future success of the world.

The flame of a candle glows warmly as a clear voice instills in the hearts of the other members the purpose and desire of the group. The sophomores are inspired by the ceremony as it lights the torch the Junior Honor Society Members must carry. This torch must illuminate leadership, scholarship, service, and character, and it must find a place in every student of LVHS.

A puzzled expression — a moment's reflection — a sudden comprehension — these are the three steps often taken by members of the LVHS Math Club. Students who belong to this club are those who find fascination and challenge in the field of mathematics and are interested in broadening their scope through this exact science. The conscientious members of Math Club have worked hard during the past year to attain the high ideals and goals they have set.

French Club

Virginia Stickell
President

Interest, devotion, scholarship, and refinement characterize Le Cercle Francais, one of the largest and most active organizations at LVHS. Through the able instruction, careful planning and enthusiasm of Mrs. Lee Pivornick, advisor, members of French Club develop an "espirit de corps" which is reflected in their loyalty, cooperation and pride – and is their inspirational flame to excell in the French language. In June many club members will be taking the LVHS "Fleur de Les Tour" to Europe. Focused upon France, monthly meetings include informative talks, European slides, films and student skits. Highlighting the year's activities were the visits of Pierre Basdevant, Consul General of France at San Francisco and Jacques de La Ferriere, Deputy Consul; the seventh annual luncheon at the Sands Hotel, and a full length film in French. Oui, LE CERCLE FRANCAIS EST MAGNIFIQUE.

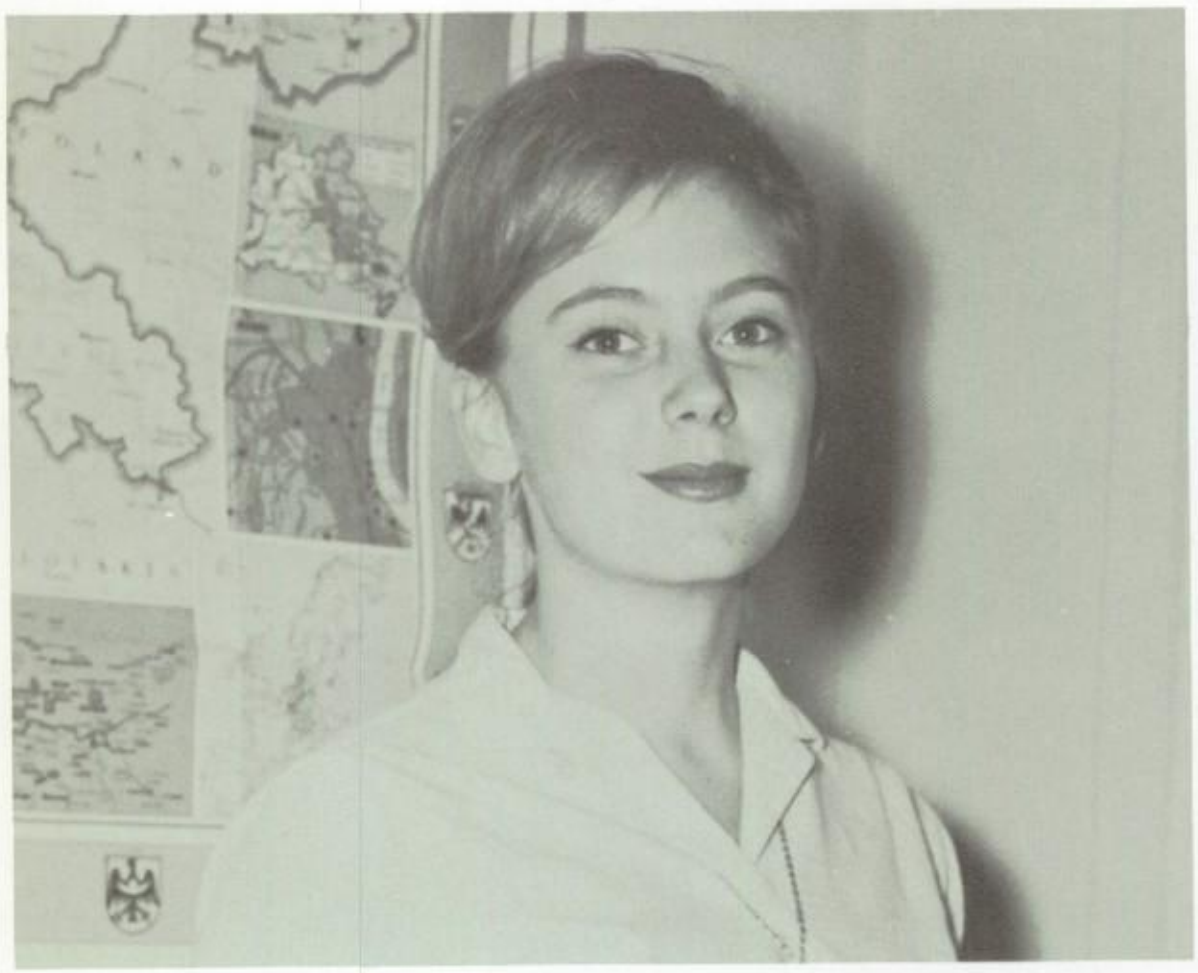
German Club



Kitt Carr
President

A divided and hostile country draws attention and interest from other parts of the world. An interest which seemed intense at Las Vegas High School resulted in the introduction of the German language and Deuscher Verein, German Club. Members are those who desire an understanding of a strange and distant country of controversy. Meetings of Deuscher Verein are filled with the traditions, customs, and thoughts of the German people. The language of Germany is filled with many new and strange sounds which soon become a part of those familiar with the language. The knowledge of a land, its people, and its language is a unique and rewarding experience for all those who study it.

Future Nurses Of America

Girlhood reverie often carries visions of a nursing career. Girls attracted by the nursing profession are given a preview of the great responsibilities and many rewards of nursing through Future Nurses of America of Las Vegas High School. Many members of the group are active participants in hospital plans such as the Candystripers and Cherrystripers, designed to acquaint girls with hospital rules and procedures. Interested girls are fortunate to have such an excellent guide and directory to aid them in channeling personal talents, abilities and interests.

Pre-Med Club

Daryl Thompson
President

The quest for knowledge, a deep and sincere desire to help others, and qualifying grades afford a student the opportunity of membership in the Pre-Med Club. This select group is able to observe operations, hear absorbing talks, and view instructive films through the cooperation of local hospitals. Members of the Pre-Med Club are given a clear picture of their possible future in the medical profession; they themselves must make the decision.

Jim Nicks, Mike McLaughlin, Neemah McGlothlan, Sharon Hanks.

The students of Las Vegas High School who enjoy capturing precious moments of school life are members of the Photography Club. The students do necessary photography work for the Wildcat Echo and the Desert Breeze thus gaining valuable experience while being exposed to the many and varied aspects of photography.

Student photographers aid the school in taking photos.

Ham Radio Club

Kirby Hahn
President

A license, a transmitter and receiver, code, and a desire to communicate are the prerequisites of Amateur Radio Club. Trained members of this fascinating and educational organization build their own radios which enables them to communicate with fellow "Hams" or work a distant and foreign country. "Hams" provide a valuable link in the chain of communication in the world.

Audio Visual Club

Mr. Hardy
Advisor

The films viewed for instructional purposes and the movies shown during lunch time are brought to the students through the aid of a group of students known as the Projectionists. The members of the Projectionists, who have received training in the operations of the school's sound and visual aid equipment, have become a necessity to LVHS.

The able members of the club are always willing to give a helping hand in time of need.

Commercial Club

High goals and ideals, the desire to learn, and interest in a business career are instigators in the minds and hearts of the Commercial Club. Bi-monthly meetings inform students as to the progress of their projects and activities, such as the selling of notebooks and pens, and ticket selling for Vegas High functions and activities. Commercial Club is another facet of Las Vegas High School directing and developing the aspiring businessmen and women of tomorrow.

Future Teachers of America

The Future Teachers of America is one club at Las Vegas High School in which the members aspire to high goals in the field of teaching, or the more important desire for higher education and the chance to teach other students someday. The club listens to talks by teachers in many fields and then weigh the merits that each branch of teaching offers. Members learn not only of the rigorous training and hard work, but also of the fun and the just rewards of teaching. A great deal of credit goes to FTA for building teachers for the future.

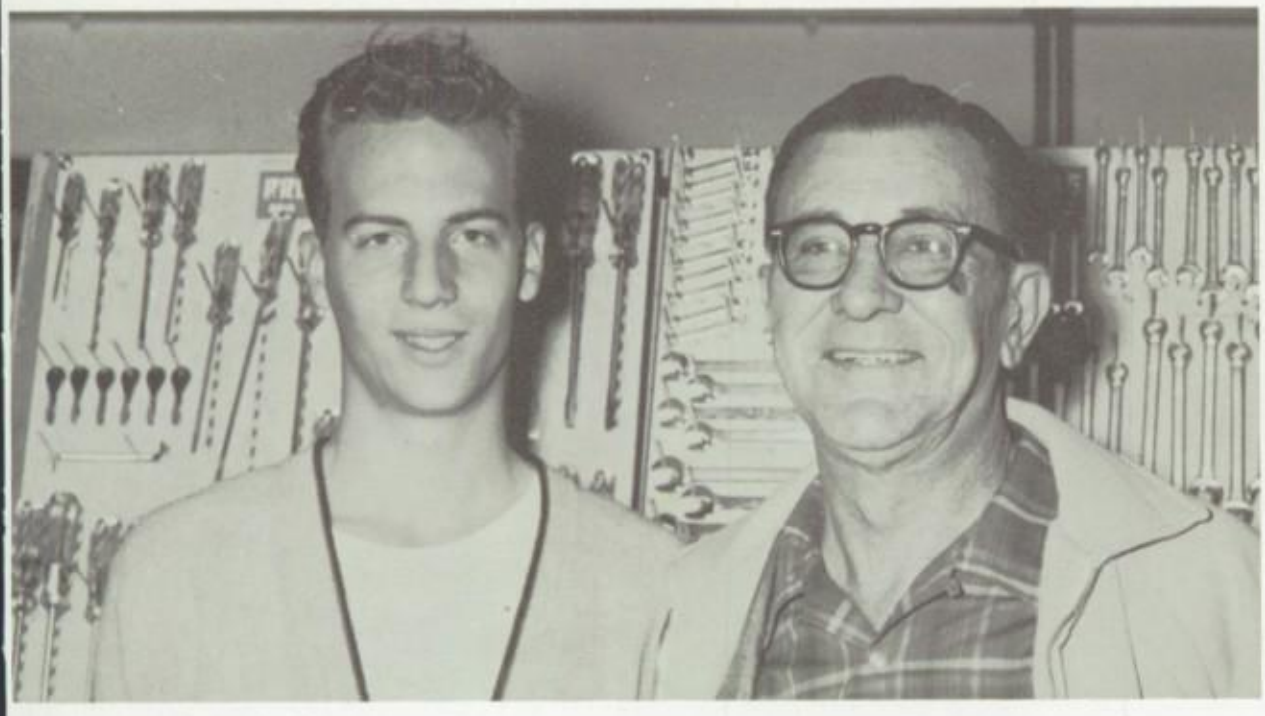
Auto Shop Club



Richard King,
Shop Foreman

Mr. Hutchins
Advisor

For three hours during the day students in auto shop immerse themselves in the endless mysteries of the car and its components. Members of the Auto Shop Club have a special desire to learn and a special interest in the mechanical problems and projects they undertake; therefore, the students devote much time outside of school to the understanding and possibilities of mechanics. They are taught the importance of safety, perfection, accuracy, and skill. Along with the use of the electronic testing equipment available to them, members are given the opportunity to view special automobile films and tour through the shop of Bonanza Airlines. The students in auto shop gain invaluable knowledge as to the care, mechanics, and repair of their cars and are free to use the facilities of the vocational building for these purposes.

Pep Club

Shouts of joy and excitement can be heard throughout the year cheering our teams to victory. These are the shouts of the Las Vegas High School Pep Club which has instilled school spirit, loyalty, and enthusiasm in the student body. Pep Club has been, extremely active during the past year, developing new chants and formations. The forming of LVHS with red flashlights in a darkened gym was just one of the new ideas introduced by our Pep Club. Active members add amusement to pep assemblies through various skits aimed at promoting school spirit and pride. LVHS owes a great deal to this active club which has worked to add enthusiasm, vibrance, and sparkle to our school.

Rhythmettes Mirror Perfection

The rhythmical clicking of twenty pairs of boots and the snappy turning of twenty heads are the characterizations of the Rhythmettes. This group of outstanding juniors and seniors, who are chosen on the basis of scholarship, ability, talent, and high standards, is one of the finest representations of Vegas High. The Rhythmettes have traveled throughout the United States, appeared in recent motion pictures, performed on the Ed Sullivan Show, and have been most honored by being introduced on the floor of the Senate. For fourteen years the Rhythmettes have added distinction to LVHS. However, this would not be possible without the superior guidance and critical supervision of Miss Evelyn Stuckey, Director. Miss Stuckey has developed a group of students who well represent the city in which we live. Such an accomplishment is one deserving great distinction and appreciation.

Echo

Carol Pratto
Picture Editor

Any great play depends largely on its backstage crew which acts as the backbone of the production. Similarly, the Wildcat Echo depends on its "backstage crew" of able typists and polished salesmen who aid in the molding and shaping of the yearbook. Of course, each phase or aspect of high school life has a place in the Wildcat Echo and each of these sections is created and organized by a special section editor. Every editor, typist, and salesman is well-versed in the production of the yearbook and is able to give assistance to any member of the staff. The words of praise given by students and faculty, the countless awards received and an inner feeling of pride and accomplishment are the rewards of this staff.

Desert Breeze Probes Student Life

The pages of the Desert Breeze reverberate the life of LVHS – its activities, its games, its students. Our school newspaper is the largest and finest newspaper published in the state of Nevada. The high quality and excellent journalism provides students with hours of enjoyment and thought-provoking information. The Candid Camera of the Breeze has captured the varied antics of students and faculty, while reporters record the unparalleled comments heard during the day. Vegas High should be especially proud of this exceptional organization.

And So . . . Gives Stature

Myrna Selwyn
Editor

Ecstacy, agony, delight, despair, poetry, prose — this is the essence of the "And So . . . ". This is Las Vegas High's annual literary magazine and is comprised of the excellent literary work done by the students of LVHS, the work of those experimenting with a new-found or undeveloped talent. It contains the thoughts, feelings, and emotions of all who contribute to this magazine. However, the "And So . . . " contains much work which is not published. It requires long hours from typists and the literary board. The "And So . . " is truly a representative of the creativity, sensitivity, and awareness of many of those who attend Las Vegas High School.

Cheerleaders Inspire Enthusiasm

The Varsity Cheerleaders have combined into a package of dynamite exploding with new cheers, yells, routines, and school spirit! Each one of the cheerleaders contributed to make their group one of the finest at LVHS. Their vivaciousness and enthusiasm is eminated not only at games, but everywhere they go. Through the tireless effort of Judy, Sharon, Hilary, Joy, and Andrea, there has been a notable increase in school spirit. Vegas High owes many thanks to these girls who have given wholeheartedly to our school.

A group of enthusiastic sophomores represents the school spirit that the underclassmen add to LVHS. Present at all J.V. football and basketball games, these energetic girls, along with the student body, lead the team to victory with their many cheers and yells. The J.V. Cheerleaders have worked hard this year to make it a good one for both the teams and the student body, and they have contributed a great deal to Vegas High.

Interscholastic Committee

Joyce Shamley

A sudden and welcome increase in school spirit is the product of a conscientious and hard-working Interscholastic Committee. This group of interested and talented students were willing to devote long hours to the creation of clever ideas, signs, posters, and slogans, to keep the light of school spirit burning. These are the students who bid the final, and often early-morning farewell to the Wildcats as they leave for an out-of-town game, and these are the students who make the visiting team feel welcome to our school. Las Vegas High has surely felt the disheartening results of the lack of school spirit. Our Interscholastic Committee was perceptive enough to realize that something had to be done. The results of their combined efforts were reflected in the year's games and activities.

Wildcat Band Reaps Honors for L.V.H.S.

Neil Brady
President

A shrill whistle, the rhythm of a drum cadence, and the flash of sparkling instruments serve as an introduction for the Las Vegas High School Wildcat Band. This group of musically talented students has continually received the well-deserved admiration and appreciation from the student body of Vegas High. The culmination of their work is presented to the students in the annual Spring Concert given by the band. The assembly provides the members of this organization with an opportunity to display individual talents and capabilities in the group. The band performs its final service of the year at which time it performs at graduation ceremonies. The Wildcat Band owes a heartfelt thanks to their developer and director, Mr. A. B. Larson. Under his capable instruction, LVHS has the finest high school band in Nevada. Every student will always feel a glowing pride within him as he watches the band perform at football games and other schools in Las Vegas, or as he hears a shrill whistle, the rhythm of a drum cadence, and watches the flash of instruments of the Las Vegas High School Wildcat Band.

Learning Through Song

Audrey Ohlson
President

A mixture of music and voices can be heard drifting from Las Vegas High School. These are the voices of the Choralettes, a group composed entirely of girls. This is just a segment of the many components of Vegas High's Choral Department. These girls are given many opportunities for performances; the Clark County Music Festival, the Solo Ensemble Festival, and exhibitions in Las Vegas and California are just of the few activities of the Choralettes. This group represents talent, ability, and high standards, and they work exceptionally hard to attain their goals and desires. Through the technique, instruction, and direction given by their advisor, Mrs. Ruth Tener, this exceptional organization of girls has blended and harmonized to make the Choralettes distinctive feature of Las Vegas High School.

A' Cappella is an organization of mixed voices each of which is selected from the mixed chorus on the basis of knowledge of music and experience. Past performances given by A' Cappella have left audiences with such deep impressions of the choir's fine ability, that they have been invited to perform at various junior high schools along with the annual California competition. This group of superior voices has inspired a great deal of pride in the students of Las Vegas High School.

Assemblies are the break in the week for the student and the assembly committee is responsible for producing, directing, and plotting not only imaginative and entertaining assemblies, but also to keep the programs informative and beneficial for the student. Miss Simons, with the help of Mr. Long and the art and music departments, guide the assemblies to provide a pleasing fare for the Las Vegas High student. Capable students are chosen from each class to aid these advisors in planning and coordinating the many and varied assemblies, from pep rallies to talent shows and notable speakers from the wealth of knowledge in the Las Vegas area.

Seniors Gain Fun, Recognition

Wednesdays are traditionally set aside for Seniors to dress-up.

The Senior class student is a unique combination of inner drives, creative abilities, and enduring enthusiasm which propells the Senior to do his very best and be an asset to his class. There are two occasions at Las Vegas High School at which the Senior can be viewed in two different manners; one time being at the Senior Mixer and the other on Senior Recognition Day. The bubbling enthusiast was present at both occasions. At the Mixer Seniors cavorted in costumes ranging from Tarzan to Snow White. The person present was the lively, carefree, have-a-good-time Senior and a good time was had by all. On Recognition Day the school saw the dignified Senior, ready to handle the adult world. Truly, the active LVHS Senior is an active – individual.

A wide variety of costumes and personalities expressed the Seniors "Surpressed Desires."

This senior along with many others displayed his hidden talents at the Senior Mixer.

Senior Days Of Fun And Distinction

"Studious" Seniors display their many varied talents on their very own stunt day.

The time has finally arrived for the Senior Class to look inward and discover their true ideals and desires. One day, which proves to be one of hilarity and complete chaos, is devoted to the Seniors at which time they are allowed to express their secret desires and ambitions. Members of the Senior Class arrive in an array of unbelievable costumes in which students have portrayed beer cans, chorus girls, Freshman, or five-year-olds. A costume contest climaxes the day in which Seniors have been given the opportunity to loose all suppressed ambitions.

Happy and radient, these Seniors will long remember their beautiful Senior Ball.

The Senior Ball brought to close a very wonderful and memorable high school life for many Seniors.

The opportunity to obtain experience in such fields as guidance and administration is given to Seniors during Senior Week.

Climax of Senior Year

These hard-working Seniors deserve much of the credit for the success of the Senior Ball.

Certainly the activites of the class of 1963 were highlighted at the Senior Ball with its captivating theme "Cast Your Fate To The Wind." There was much gaiety at the Ball, but underneath it all there stood the serious Senior student wondering at the feeling of this, his last big fling at Las Vegas High School. No lack of spirit showed, however, as dancing continued far into the night to the soft music of a small orchestra. Number One Senior Boy, Jon Larsen, was crowned during the dance with James Richards and Dave Phoenix as his attendants. "Cast Your Fate To The Wind" will long be remembered by a host of Seniors. The hard work of our Senior class officers will also never be forgotten.

Homecoming was received with welcomed anticipation as the time for the game grew closer. High hope and anxiety accompanied the teams and student bodies as the first quarter began. Hopes for the return of Sir Herkimer grew highes as the game continued with LVHS in the lead. The air was vibrant as playing time shortened, but good fortune was with Rancho when a field goal extinguished the sweet dreams of victory for Vegas High. LVHS was very fortunate, however, in having lovely Sharon Thomas reign as Homecoming Queen, attended by Judy Sutton and Hilary Goldwater. The Senior class was well rewarded also, as they received the sweepstakes award for their unusual float, "Over the Rainbow".

Inaugural Ball Opens Activities At L.V.H.S.

The Second Annual Inaugural Ball was beautifully done and lingers in our memories as one of the more impressive events of the year. The traditional Grand March and the formal inauguration ceremony were just a part of the ball. The climax of the evening was the electric inaugural address given by the President, Jon Larsen. This, the second annual dance, was held in the gym and was met with enthusiasm and the warm spirit of the holiday season. Decorations hung from every corner, soft Christmas music filled the air, and excited students danced and ate their own weight in food. The Echo hopes to build this dance into one of the featured events of the year, and if the response is as great as it was this year "Mistletoe Magic" will be looked forward to as a highlight on the student calendar.

The Las Vegas High School Wildcats knew the forthcoming year would be a difficult one due to the loss of most of the senior members of the team. However, through rugged training and expert guidance, the team won the game with Sparks—an excellent way to start the season! The Wildcats were unfortunate in having such a difficult schedule during the past year when experience was lacking on the team; nevertheless, the team confronted every game with the spirit, readiness and ability that is characteristic of our Wildcats. The team played a hard game with Escondido, but failed to come out on top with a score 20 to 12. The team next traveled to Riverside filled with hope of bringing home news of a victory. Again the high spiritedness and hope were no match for the powerful Riverside eleven and Vegas High suffered a second defeat. The fourth game of the season was with Banning—another very capable team. Again the game was a difficult one with Banning emerging victorious. The games were building a strong Las Vegas team and providing the members with invaluable experience. The coaches worked with enthusiasm and energy to construct a team that would be ready to meet our old rival, Rancho High School. The season continued with its ups and downs, its losses and its wins. Homecoming was anticipated with mixed feelings by the team, the coaches and the student body. The Wildcats had the spirit and desire to win but fell before the rugged Rancho team. The team had never worked so hard, nor played so well; however, hope and courage were not enough to win the game.

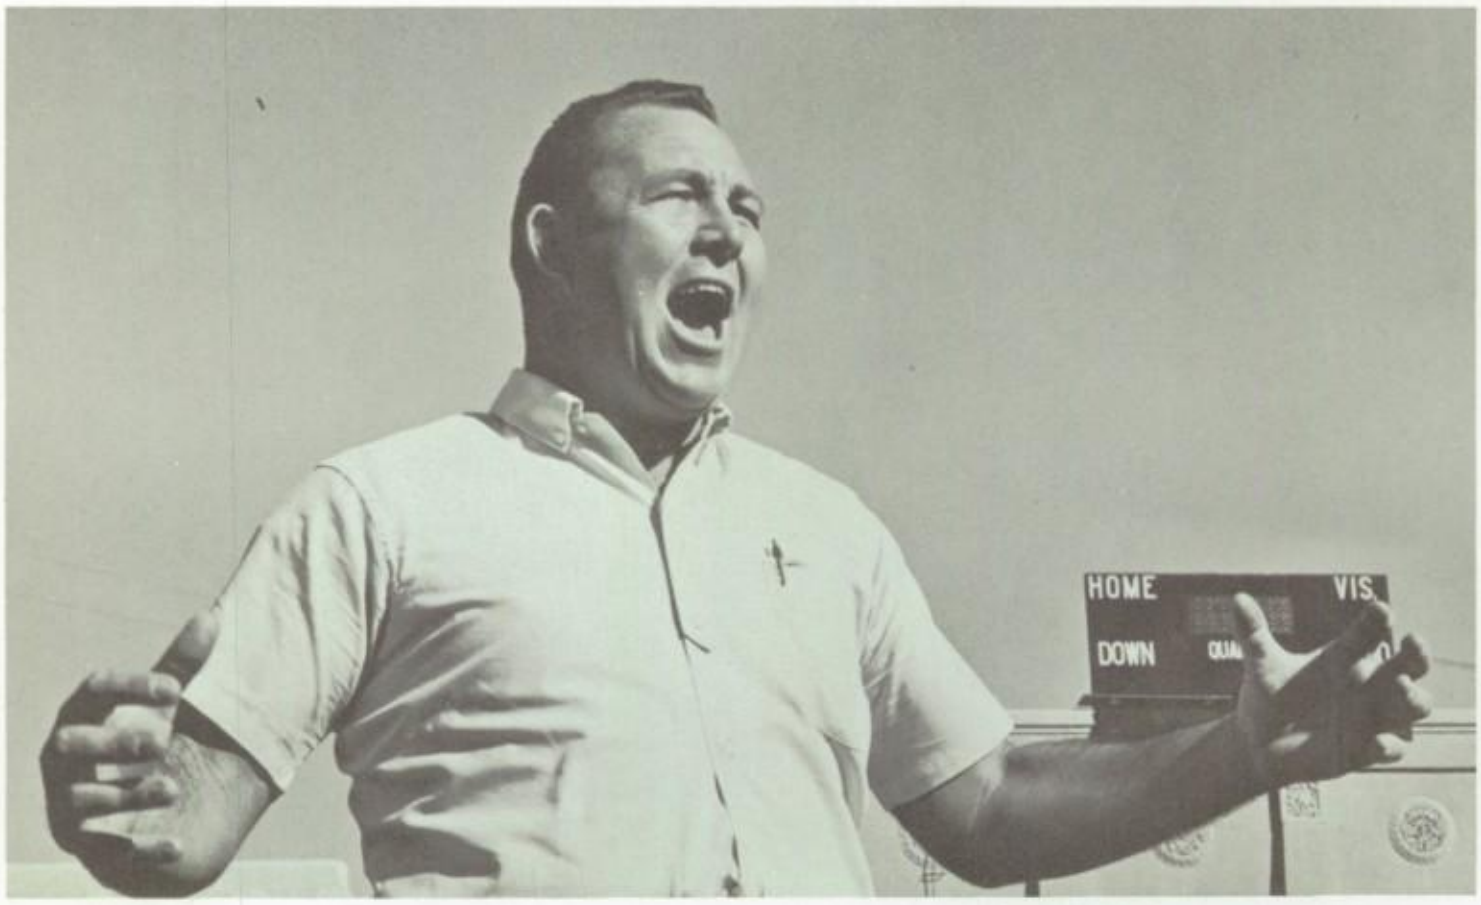
The Rugged Leaders of Our Team



DeRay Eyre

In his second year at Las Vegas High School, Head Coach DeRay Eyre did a fine job with the Wildcats. He worked constantly and untiringly to produce a team which could bring victory to L.V.H.S. Due to the fact that Coach Eyre did not have the experienced players he needed, he concentrated his efforts on building for the future. The 1962-63 season acted as a means of introducing the players to the rigid training, hard work, and vigorous games to which they must become accustomed. Because of his skill and past experience as a Wildcat star, the team members regard Coach Eyre as an excellent instructor. Coach Eyre has three assistants who have made his tremendous task somewhat lighter. Coach Okleberry, Coach Hunt, and Coach Romeo have acted as the driving forces of the team. Along with Coach Eyre, these three capable men hav produced a team that will insure victory for L.V.H.S. The coaches have commanded the respect of the boys they instruct, and because of their capabilities and understanding have received it. The team is deeply grateful to these men, and the forthcoming victories will justify this feeling.

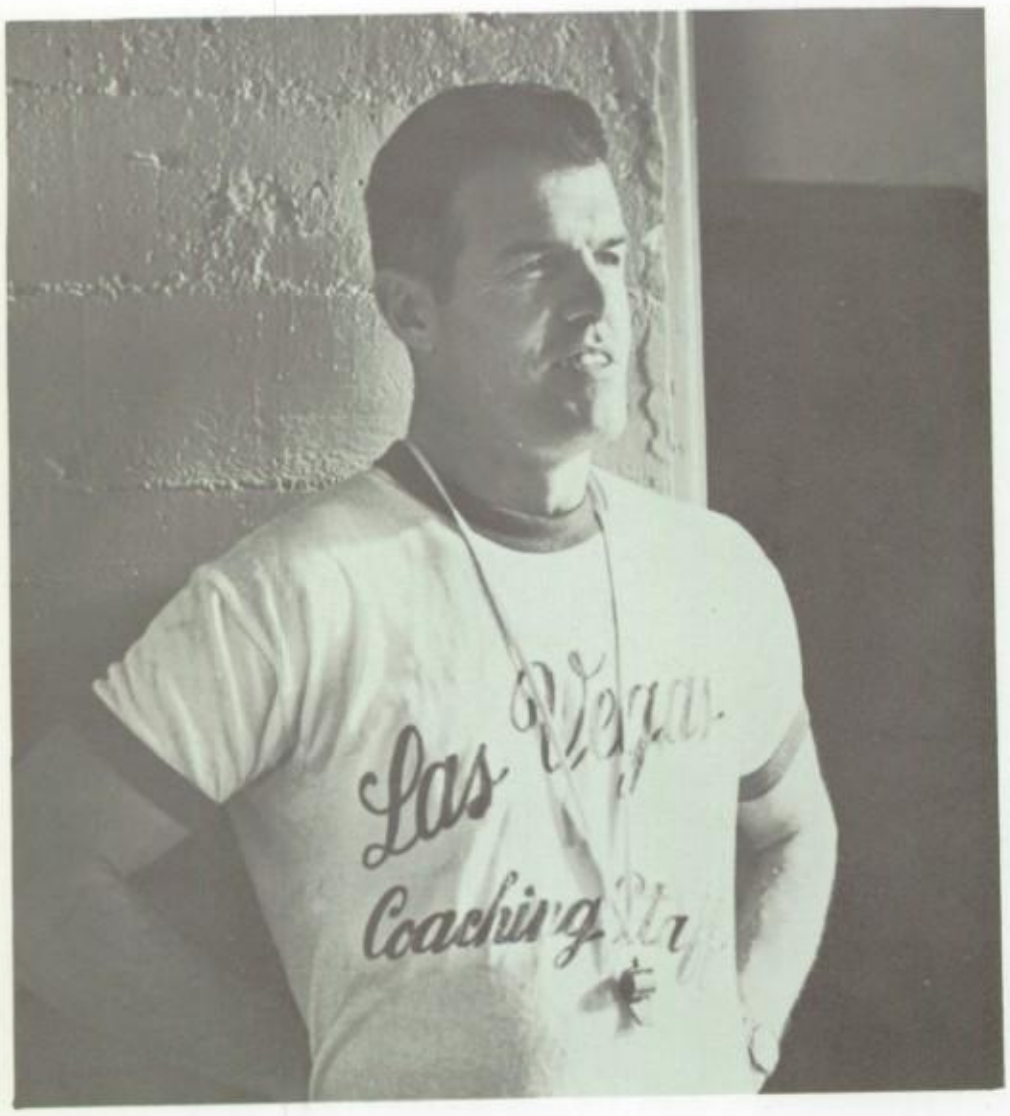
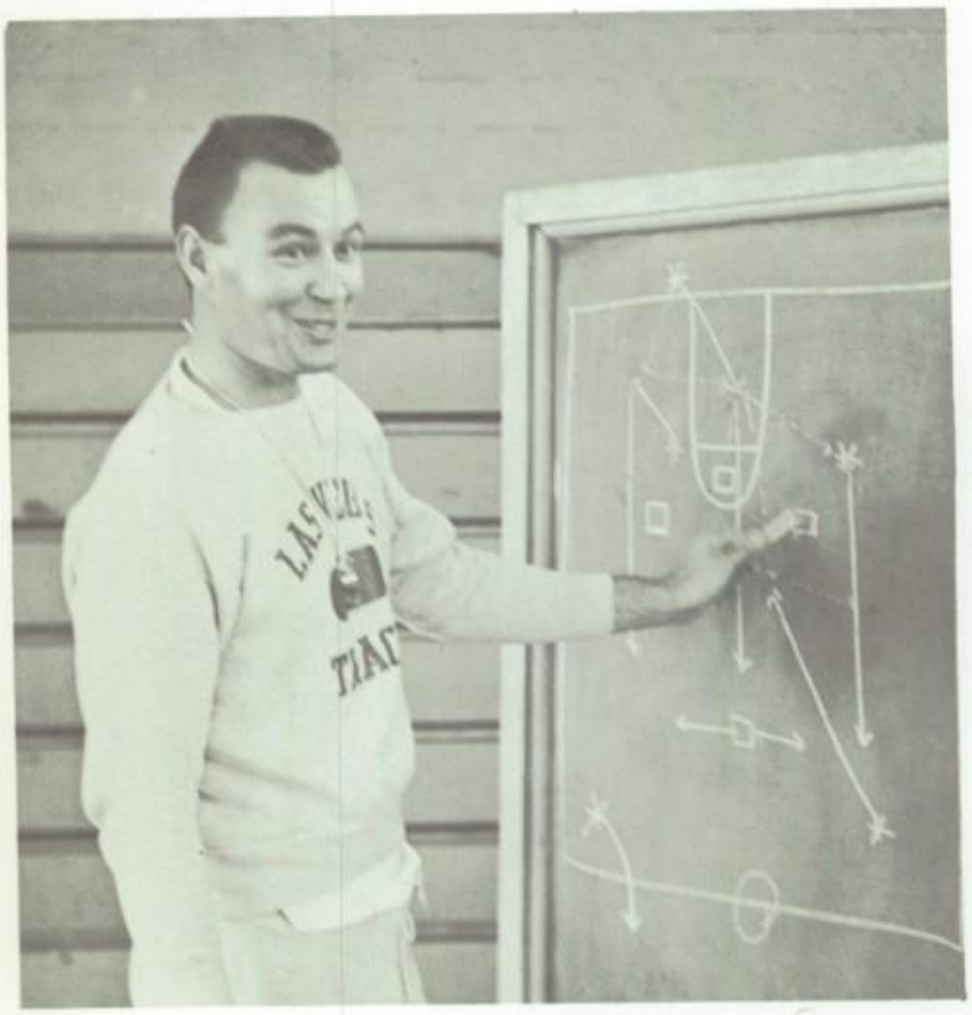
The 1962-1963 Basketball season was a strenuous one for the Las Vegas High School Wildcats. A season that sometimes was happy, sometimes was sad, but the team and the students in the stands took part in many exciting and thrilling moments. The Wildcats won their first two games of the year against out of State competition, but then were defeated by two very tough California opponents. The team came back, however, to enjoy its greatest glory of the year by starting a win skein that included womping Gorman, Rancho, Basic, White Pine, and the defending State champion Western Warriors. The rest of the season was filled with ups and downs for Coach Harry Paille's struggling Wildcats. Coach Paille, emphasizing speed, ball handling, and accuracy from the field as well as the free throw line, did a fine job gathering talent from a limited number of returning seniors and joining it with upcoming sophomores and juniors. The team had a certain spark all year long that carried the boys over the many rough spots including injuries, inexperience, and some very tough defeats. Las Vegas entered the zone tournament with a will to win and a fired up enthusiasm, but we drew a rugged foe in the Rancho Rams in the first round. In one of the most exciting games of the whole season, the lead changed hands many times and at the end of the regulation period the score was tied. A three minute overtime period followed in which the Rams barely squeeked out the timely victory. The Wildcats were discouraged, but played a fine game the next day. An inspiring but disappointing season ended for the Las Vegas High School Wildcats.

Able Coaches Guide The Basketball Team



Harry Paille
Head Coach



Richard Truman
Assistant Coach

Repeated instruction, helpful correction, and supervised hours of practice require much time and effort from the Las Vegas High School basketball coaches, Mr. Harry Paille and Mr. Dick Truman. Through the tireless supervision and instruction of these men, Vegas High performed with an excellent and inspired team. The players were well trained and worked together as a unit to bring success to the school and outstanding records to the team's fine coaches. The good sportsmanship exhibitioned by the Las Vegas High School basketball team was certainly a favorable reflection of the high quality of the coaches leading the Vegas to fame. Coach Paille, as the head coach, worked endless hours on footwork, rebounding, and team spirit with the fellows. Ably assisted by Mr. Truman, the team rounded into a coordinated unit of skill and drive. The fine efforts of the coaches will not soon be forgotten by either the players on the basketball team or the students of Las Vegas High. A season in which the rebuilding process was a vital factor proved to all that the Wildcats consisted of fine players and hardworking players, but the finess of the team lay in the outstanding ability of coaches Harry Paille and Dick Truman.

Junior Varsity Posts Commendable Record

The understudies of Las Vegas High School's Varsity basketball team worked exceptionally hard so that they might step into the lead as Varsity team members next year. The coaches of the Junior Varsity team worked carefully and diligently to mold a group of young boys into star basketball players. The extensive training of the new members was gratifying to both the coaches and players as victory marked many J.V. games.

The Effort In Track . . .

The track team is to be commended for the outstanding booster they have provided for the morale of the sports department at Las Vegas High School. The only team to bring home a State Championship, the Wildcats are an experienced team this year and will have a strong chance for another victory this year. Two able coaches, Mr. Truman and Mr. Eyre, have molded a team with depth and precision and a will to win. The track program at Las Vegas High is not only concerned with building track stars, but also is prepared to build up the youth of Las Vegas. Regardless of the showing of the track team this year, the students of LVHS should be proud of them. Many rewards should follow our team as their ability matches their enthusiasm.

Serge Alvarez
Assistant Coach

Baseball takes over Las Vegas High Schol as one of the two major sports during the Spring season. With two fine coaches, Lou Pisani and Sergio Alvarez, the Wildcat baseball team should be on its way to a fine season. A few returning lettermen will supply a nucleus and a great many new faces will round out the field of LVHS Baseball talent. Robert Bales and Bill Vandeveer should provide plenty of pitching punch, while returning sluggers Neil Brady and Clayton Downey will insure hitting power for the Wildcats. Coach Pisani will be trying to build a sound defense in his infield and outfield, combine it with control pitching and a few singles, doubles, triples and homeruns, then let the winning take care of itself.

Golf Team Faces Tough Competition

As one of the three sports in its second year at Las Vegas High School, Golf has proved an outlet for some of the many talented golfers in our midst. Assisted by Mr. Tripole, the team will face rugged teams from Rancho, Basic, Western, Gorman, and the University of Southern Nevada. Vegas will play all its home matches at Paradise Valley Country Club, but will also be competing at Municipal, Black Mountain, and the Stardust. Emphasis is put on driving, chiping, putting, and winning, but most of all the team pushes for fair play and the hope of building a strong team for Golf's future at LVHS.

Bowling New Addition To LVHS

Bowling, the sport that is sweeping the country and rising to the heights of popularity is one of three new sports added to the LVHS extra curricular activities. Last year a trial league was formed and went over so well with the students that now it is possible to earn a varsity letter in bowling. Three different divisions have been formed including the varsity boys, the junior varsity boys, and the varsity girls. Competition is stiff with all the high schools in the city plus a team from NSU battling for first place. Bowling is beneficial to everyone for the simple reason that one does not have to quit when he leaves school, but may continue to bowl for health and exercise. Bowling has secured a niche in LVHS life.

Tennis Team Starts Second Year

Another sport that is just getting started at LVHS is the tennis team. Such a growing demand for the team persisted until Mr. Alleman and an eager group of boys formed the new team. After an experimental team last year, the tennis fans will get a chance to see their favorite Las Vegas High regulars play this year. The team will play matches against the other high schools and will perhaps be able to play against some of the faculty experts in the game of skill and exercise on the cement courts.

Now the secondary education of a class of students has ended, but the growth and ability of this generation must continue. As an artist finishes a great portrait, he feels an immense sense of accomplishment, but he does not quit painting. The artist realizes, as the graduating student must realize, that he has only finished a facet of the great portrait of life. Las Vegas High School has finished a class of "Portraits In Learning," and the rest is up to the graduate. The Echo staff is proud to have been a small part of an important staff of life, the education of youth.

Hi Leon!
Well I've known you for a long time now and I've enjoyed every min. of it. Best of luck in everything you do. A friend always —

Lorraine Apt.

To Leon

It's been fun having you in gym with me. I really envy you because next year you'll be a senior. We will be in Acappella next year and I hope that we can see each other a lot. You lucky dog! You won't have to take gym.

Love
Penny

Leon,

We sure had a lot of fun being the only violists in that swingin' orchestra! ha ha! Mr. Holdings will never forgive me for quitting. Has he got? Oh, well another year is gone soon we will be out into the cold, cold world.

Leon —

To one of the sweetest Girls I know. It's really been fun having you in P.E. & hope we'll be seeing more of you. Keep Up the wonderful work in school. I really enjoyed your friendship. That saunda pretty Rubber-stamp pitch, doesn't it? It's not bad either. Best of luck always!
